Once upon a time we lived with hearts that raced and minds that dreamed and clocks that had no hour hands.

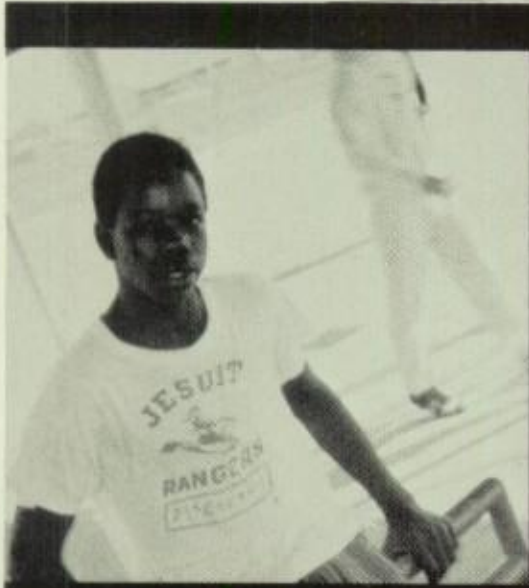

With common goals, and common longings, we laughed, we loved, we played, we won. Those were our school days, our happy days.

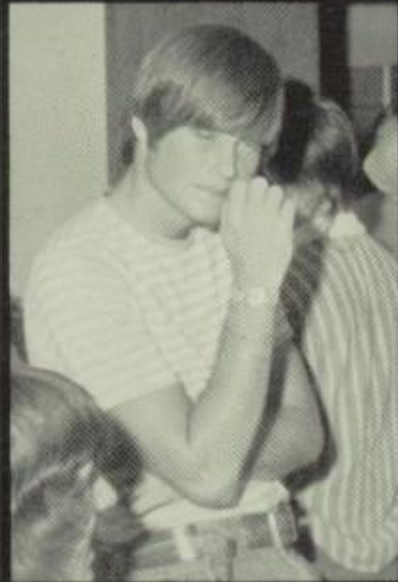

They were real because we made them real. They were alive because we existed and then suddenly they faded into the less carefree days of adulthood.

And now they are gone . . . those happy days in school. Around the corner are the unknown days of tomorrow.

Who knows the future that they will bring? But regardless of what they bring, we shall always have our memories.

Dedication

Words are a poor substitute with which to express our sincere respect and appreciation for this individual. We are grateful for a man who has been coach, teacher, and friend to each of us. Students and fellow teachers look to him for help and co-operation, receiving both. His interest in his students is sincerely appreciated, for he is never too busy to stop and talk and help in any way possible.

With a great deal of admiration and deep appreciation, we the 1974 Senior annual staff members dedicate this yearbook to one who we feel truly deserves it.

JOHN R. LIGON
Bachelor of Science
Masters of Education

Dear Students:

For many of you Seniors, this is the culmination of your formal education; may your school years serve you well in your chosen career. For those of you who continue into college, you have a strong foundation upon which to base your future. To the remaining classes I offer the challenge not to let yourselves become entangled by the petty things of life, for your next few years here in our school are surely some of the most productive and valuable of your lives.

All of you alike have been presented the skills required of those who hope to successfully work and live in today's world. Along with these skills, you have constantly been exposed to the basic attitudes of citizenship, which you must acquire if you hope to live comfortably in that world.

In closing, I challenge you to excel through vision, enlightenment, and understanding. It is my hope that you will play an important role in the refurbishing of society so that you and all others may have a vital and good world in which to spend your lives.

John R. Ligon

Dear Students and Faculty:

It is indeed a pleasure to be a part of this fine school and community. The added cooperation and support from the students, parents, teachers, and community have brought about better understanding and concern for everyone.

May we continue to pull together and move in a positive direction whatever the case may be.

My best wishes go out to all graduating seniors. I am confident that you will give 100% support to the task at hand.
